Naples Downtown

Walk with the Kings:

Walk with the Bourbon Kings Charles III and his son Ferdinand I, when Naples was the prestigious capital city of a rich Kingdom.

Monday, November 18 or Thursday, November 21

Price per person: €60

Minimum participants: 30

Departure: Royal Continental at 1.00pm

Duration: Half day

Plebiscito Square, Royal Palace and its Court Theatre Museum

Plebiscito Square is the most representative square in Naples. Its name celebrates the Plebiscite with which on October 21, 1860 the Regions in Southern Italy, then named the Reign of two Sicilies, were unified with the Savoia's Piemonte. Before that date the name of the square was Palace Square because of the Royal palace.

The square is composed of four buildings: the Royal Palace, the Salerno Palace, the Guest House Palace and the Church of San Francesco di Paola.

In its centre we can see two statues by architect Antonio Canova representing the king Charles III of Bourbons and his son Ferdinand I.

The Royal Palace of Naples is one of the four royal residences used by the Bourbons during the Kingdom of the Two Sicilies, the other three are the Palace of Capodimonte located north of the Old Town, the Palace of Caserta and the Palace of Portici on the slopes of Vesuvius.

Of remarkable dimensions, the Palace overlooks the majestic monumental area of Piazza del Plebiscito. During its history, the Palace became the residence of the Spanish viceroys, then of the Austrians and later of the kings of the House of Bourbons. After the unification of Italy it was named, Neapolitan residence of the kings of the Dynasty of Savoy.

San Carlo Opera Theatre

The oldest Opera House in Europe, it was opened on November 4th 1737, name day. Charles III of Bourbon was strongly determined to give the Capital City of his Kingdom a new theatre representing the royal power. "Do you know if any spark burns in you? Run, go to Naples to enjoy the masterpieces by Leo, Durante, Jommelli, Pergolesi." (Jean-Jacques Rousseau, Dictionnaire de Musique).

Next to Piazza del Plebiscito, the symbol of the city of Naples, stands the temple of Italian Opera. Dating back to 41 years before the Scala of Milan and 55 years before La Fenice of Venice.

Naples Downtown A Step in the Past:

Along Spaccanapoli through the narrow streets of the old town, visit of Spaccanapoli, the church and cloister of Santa Chiara and the Sansevero Chapel.

Monday, November 18 or Friday, November 22

Price per person: €70

Minimum participants: 30

Departure: Royal Continental at 09.00am

Duration: Half day

Napolisotterranea

Forty meters below the characteristic and lively roads of the Historic Centre of Naples, you find a different, unexplored world, isolated from time, but deeply connected with the world above.

It is the heart of Naples and the place where the city was born. To visit it is to travel into the past, a world 2400 years old.

Every historic epic, from the foundation of Neapolis to the bombs of WWII, has left its mark on the walls of the yellow tufa stone, the soul of Naples, and the stone with which the city was built.

Santa Chiara Cloister

Santa Chiara is one of the largest and most important churches in Naples. Founded in 1310 by Robert the Wise, the basilica is part of a large Franciscan complex that also includes beautiful cloisters and a museum.

Santa Chiara was founded in 1310 by Robert the Wise (a.k.a. Robert of Anjou). The basilica and convent were designed in an austere Provençal-Gothic style and completed in 1328.

The church interior was given a Baroque makeover in 1742-57, which was sadly destroyed by an Allied bomb in August 1943. Santa Chiara was rebuilt in 1953 in its original style.

The cloister of Santa Chiara is reached through a courtyard on the north side of the church, near the campanile. Dating originally from the 14th century, the large cloister was transformed into an elegant garden by Domenico Antonio Vaccaro in 1742. The beautiful majolica tiles and terracottas date from this period. Surviving from the Middle Ages is the austere friar's refectory, with a fountain in the middle. The cloister includes a museum (Museo dell'Opera di Santa Chiara), with displays illustrating the history of the convent.

The Museum of Capodimonte

Once it was one of the Royal Residences near the city, on the Hill of Capodimonte. Today it holds the extraordinary collection of the Farnese, one of the most important families of the Italian Renaissance and a variety of other collections, from painting and sculpture to drawings, arms, decorative arts with a wealth of examples of great refinement.

Sansevero Chapel

Its origin dates to 1590 when John Francesco di Sangro, Duke of Torremaggiore, after recovering from a serious illness, had a private chapel built in what were then the gardens of the nearby Sansevero family residence, the Palazzo Sansevero. The building was converted into a family burial chapel by Alessandro di Sangro in 1613 (as inscribed on the marble plinth over the entrance to the chapel). Definitive form was given to the chapel by Raimondo di Sangro, Prince of Sansevero, who also included Masonic symbols in its reconstruction. Until 1888 a passageway connected the Sansevero palace with the chapel. The chapel received its alternative name of Pietatella from a painting of the Virgin Mary (La Pietà), spotted there by an unjustly arrested prisoner, as reported in the book "Napoli Sacra" by Cesare d'Engenio Caracciolo in 1623. When the chapel was constructed it was originally dedicated to Santa Maria della Pietà, after the painting.

The Royal Palace of Caserta is located on the slopes of the hills of Caserta, in the fertile Terra di Lavoro. After Naples it was the residence of the Bourbon royal family. It is a massive rectangular building, divided into four courtyards.

With its statuary groups, its large sets of fountains and waterfalls, and the lawn in the distance, the park of the Palace is the last great example of a Baroque park. Charles III of Bourbon wanted the project designed by architect Luigi Vanvitelli. The new King's residence had to compete with those of the European dynasties and represent magnificence and grandeur.
